WASHINGTON, July 20.

To the House of Representatives of the United States:

I return herewith the bill entitled "An act supplementary to provide for the more efficient government of the rebel States, passed on the 2d day of March, 1867, and the act supplementary thereto, passed on the 23d day of March, 1867;" and will state as briefly as possible some of the reasons which prevent me from giving my approval. This is one of a series of measures passed by Congress during the last four months, on the subject of reconstruction. The message returning the act of March 2d last, stated at length my objections to the passage of that bill. They apply equally well to the bill now before me, and I am content to refer to them and reiterate my conviction that they are sound and unanswerable. There are some points peculiar to this bill which I will proceed at once to consider. The first section imports to declare the true intent and meaning, in some particulars, of the two prior acts upon this subject. It is declared that the intent of those acts was, first, that the existing governments in the ten rebel States were not legal State governments; and, second, that thereafter said governments, to be continued subject, in all respects, to the military commanders of the respective districts, and to the paramount authority of Congress. Congress may, by declaratory act, fix upon a prior act a construction altogether at variance with its apparent meaning, and from the time, at least when said construction is fixed, the original act will be construed and mean exactly what it is stated to mean by the declaratory statute. There will be then, from the time this bill may become a law, no doubt as to the relation in which the existing governments in those States, called in the original act the Provisional Governments, stand toward the United States—as their relations stood before the declaratory act. These governments, it is true, were made subject to absolute military authority in many important respects, but not in all. The language of the act being subject to the military authority of the United States, as hereinafter prescribed by the sixth section of the original act. These governments were made, in all respects, subject to the paramount authority of the United States. Now, by this declaratory act, it appears that Congress did not by the original act intend to limit the military authorities to any particulars or subjects therein prescribed, but meant to make it universal. Thus, over all these ten States, this military government is now declared to have unlimited authority. It is no longer confined to the preservation of the public peace, the administration of criminal laws, the registration of voters and the superintendence of elections, but, in all respects, is asserted to be paramount to the existing civil governments. It is impossible to conceive any state of society more intolerable than this, and yet it is to this condition that 12,000,000 American citizens are reduced by Congress of the United States over every foot of the immense territory occupied by these American citizens. The Constitution of the United States, theoretically, is in full operation. It binds all the people there, and should protect them; yet they are denied every one of its sacred guarantees. And of what avail will it be to any one of these Southern people, when guarded by a file of soldiers, to ask for the cause of arrest or the production of the warrant? Of what avail to ask for the privilege of bail when in military custody, which knows no such thing as bail? Of what avail to demand a trial by jury, protest for witnesses, a copy of indictment, the privilege of counsel, or that greater privelege—the writ of habeas corpus? The veto of the original bill of March second was based on two distinct grounds: The interference of Congress in duties strictly pertaining to the reserved powers, and the establishment of military tribunals for the trial of citizens in time of peace. The impartial reader of that message will understand that all it contains with respect to military despotism and martial law has reference especially to fear, however conferred on the district commanders, to displace the criminal courts and assume jurisdiction to try and punish by Military Boards. Most potentially the suspension of habeas corpus was martial law and military despotism. The act now before me not only declares that the intent was to confer such military authority, but to confer unlimited authority over all the older courts of the State, and over all officers of the State legislative, executive and judicial. Not content with the general grant of Congress, the second section of this bill specifically gives to each military commander the power to suspend or relieve from office, or from the performance of official duties and exercise of official powers, any officer, or any person holding or professing to hold or exert civil or military office in such district under any power, elective, appointable, or derived from or granted by or claimed under any so-called State, or the government thereof or any municipal or other division thereof; a power that, hitherto, all the departments of the Federal Government, acting in concert or separately, have not dared to exercise, is here attempted to be conferred on a subordinate military officer. To him, as a military officer of the Federal Government, is given the power, supported by a sufficient military force, to remove every civil officer of the United States. What next? The district commander who has thus displaced the civil officer is authorised to fill the vacancy by the detail of an officer or a soldier of the army. By the appointment of some other person this military officer, whether an officer or a soldier, is to perform the duties of such officer or person so suspended or removed. In other words, an officer or soldier of the army is transferred into a civil officer. He may be made a Governor, a Legislator or a Judge. However unfit he may deem himself for such civil duties, he must obey the order. The officer, if detailed, must go on the Supreme Bench of the State with the same prompt obedience as if detailed to act in a court martial. The soldier, if detailed to act as a Justice of the Peace, must obey as quickly as if detailed for picket duty. What is the character of such military civil officers? This bill declares that he shall perform the duties of the civil office to which he is detailed. It is clear, however, that he does not lose his position in the military service; he is still an officer or soldier; he is still subject to the rules and regulations which govern the army, must yield due respect and obedience toward his superiors. The clear intent of this section is that the officer or soldier detailed to fill a civil office must execute its duties according to the laws of the State. If he is appointed Governor of a State, he is to execute his duties as provided by the laws of that State, and for the time being his military character is to be suspended in his new civil capacity. If he is appointed State Treasurer he must at once assume custody and disbursements of funds of the State, and perform those duties precisely according to the laws of the State, for he is entrusted with no other official duty or other official power when holding the office of Treasurer and entrusted with funds. It happens that he is required by the State laws to enter into bond with security and take an oath of office. From the beginning of the bill to the end there is no provision of any bond or oath of office, or for any single qualification required under State laws, such as residence, citizenship, or any thing else. The only oath is that provided for in the ninth section, by the terms of which every one detailed or appointed to any civil office in a State is required to take an oath prescribed by law for officers of the United States. Thus an officer of the army of the United States, ordered to fill a civil office in one of these States, gives no official bond, and takes no official oath for the performance of his new duties; but as a civil officer of the State, he easily takes the same oath which he had already taken as a military officer of the United States. He is at least a military officer performing civil duties, and the authority under which he acts is Federal authority only, and the inevitable result is that the Federal, by the agency of its own officers, in effect, assumes the civil government of the State. A singular contradiction is apparent here. Congress declares these local State governments to be illegal governments, and then provides that these illegal governments shall be carried on by Federal officers, who are to perform the very duties imposed on its own officers by this illegal State authority. It certainly would be a novel spectacle if Congress should attempt to carry on a legal State government by the agency of its own officers. It is yet more strange that Congress attempts to sustain and carry on an illegal State government by the same Federal agency. In this connection I must call attention to the tenth and eleventh sections of this bill, which provide that some of the officers or appointees of these military commanders shall be bound in his action by an opinion of a civil officer of the United States, and that all the provisions of the act shall be construed literally to the end that all interest thereof may be fully carried out. It seems that Congress supposed this bill might require construction, and they therefore applied this rule; but where is the construction to come from? Certainly no one can be more in want of instruction than a soldier or an officer detailed for a civil service, perhaps the most important in a State, with the duties of which he is altogether unfamiliar. This bill says he shall not be bound in his action by the opinion of any civil officer of the United States. The duties of the office are altogether unfamiliar, but when he asks for instructions he can only ask the opinion of another officer, who, perhaps, understands as little of his duties as he does himself; and for his action he is answerable to the military authority, and the military authority alone. Strictly, the opinion of no civil officer, other than a judge, has a binding force, but this military appointee's would not even be bound by a judicial opinion. They might very well say even where their action is in conflict with the Supreme Court of the United States, that the court is composed of civil officers of the United States, and we are not bound to conform our action to any opinion of any such authority. The bill and act to which it is supplementary, are all founded upon the assumption that these ten communities are not States, and their Governments are not loyal throughout. In the legislation on this subject, they are called rebel States, and in this particular, they are denominated so called States, and the vice of illegality is declared to pervade all of them. The obligations of consistency bind a legislative body as well as the individuals who compose it. It is now too late to say that these ten communities are not States, declarations to the contrary made in three acts, are contradicted again and again, by repeated acts of legislation, by Congress from the year 1861 to the year 1867. During that period, while the States were in actual rebellion, and after that rebellion was brought to a close, they have again and again been recognized as States of the Union. Representatives have been appointed from them, and they have been divided into judicial districts for the holding of district and circuit courts of the United States. As States of the Union only can they be districted. The last on this subject was passed July 23, 1866, by which every one of the ten States was arranged into districts and circuits. They have been called on only by Congress to act through their Legislatures upon at least two amendments to the Constitution of the United States. As States they have ratified one amendment which required the vote of twenty-seven States of the thirty-eight composing the Union. When the requisite twenty-seven votes were given in favor of that amendment, seven votes of which were given by seven of these States, it was proclaimed to be a part of the Constitution of the United States, and slavery was declared no longer to exist within the United States or any place subject to its jurisdiction. If these States were not loyal States of the Union, it follows as an inevitable consequence that in some of the States slavery yet existed. It does not exist in these seven States, for they have abolished it in their new State constitutions, but by not having done so it could still remain in that State; but, in truth, if this assumption that these States have no legal State Governments be true, then the abolition of slavery by these illegal governments binds no one, for Congress now denies to the States the power to abolish slavery by denying to them the power to elect a legal State Legislature, or frame a constitution for any purpose, even for such a purpose as the abolition of slavery. As to the other Constitutional amendment, having reference to suffrage, it happens that these States have not accepted it. The consequence is it has never been proclaimed or understood even by Congress to be a part of the Constitution of the United States. The Senate of the United States has repeatedly given its sanction to the appointment of Judges and District Attorneys for every one of these States, yet, if they are not legal States, not one of these Judges is authorized to hold a court. Both houses of Congress have passed appropriation bills to pay all these Judges, Attorneys and officers of the United States exercising their functions in those States. Again, in the machinery of the revenue laws all these States are described not as territories, but as States. So much for continuous legislative recognition. The instances cited, however, fall far short of all that might be enumerated. Executive recognition, as is well known, has been frequent and unwavering. The same may be said as to the judicial recognition throughout by the Supreme Court of the United States. That august tribunal, from first to last, in the administration of its duties in banco and upon the circuit, has never failed to recognize these ten communities as legal States of the Union. The cases in that court upon appeal and writ of error from these States when the rebellion began, have not been dismissed on any cessation of jurisdiction. They were carefully continued from time to time, until the rebellion was entirely subdued and peace established, and were called for argument and consideration as if no insurrection had intervened. New cases occurring since the rebellion, have come from these States before that court by a writ of error and appeal, and by the original suit. These cases are entertained by that tribunal in the exercise of acknowledged jurisdiction which could not attach to them if they had come from any political body other than a State of the Union. Finally, in the allotment of their circuits, made by the Judges at the December term, 1865, every one of these States is put on the same footing of legality with all other States. Virginia and North Carolina being a part of the fourth circuit, are attached to the Chief Justice. South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama and Mississippi constitute the fifth circuit, and are attached to the late Mr. Justice Wayne. Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas are alloted to the sixth judicial circuit, in which there is a vacancy on the bench. The Chief Justice, in the exercise of his duty, has recently held a circuit court in North Carolina. If North Carolina is not a State of this Union, the Chief Justice had no authority to hold court there, and every judgment and decree delivered by him was null and void. Another ground on which these reconstruction acts are attempted to be sustained is that these ten States are conquered territory; that the Constitutional relation in which they stand as States toward the Federal government prior to the rebellion, has given place to a new relation, that is, territory as conquered territory, and their citizens conquered people, and in this relation Congress can govern them by a military power. A title by Congress stands on clear ground. It is a new title acquired by war. It applies only to territory, or for goods and moveable things regularly captured in war, called booty, or if taken by individual soldiers, plunder. There is not a foot of land in any one of these ten States which the United States holds by conquest; and only such lands as did not belong to either of those states or any individual owner—I mean such lands as did belong to the pretended Government called the Confederate States—these lands we claim and hold by conquest. As to all other lands or territory, whether belonging to the States or individuals, the Federal Government has now no more right or title to them than it had before the rebellion. Our own forts, arsenals, navy yards, custom houses and other Federal property situated in these States, we now hold, not by the title of conquest, but by an old title acquired by purchase or condemnation for public use, with compensation to former owners. We have not conquered these places, but simply repossessed them. If we require more sites for forts, custom houses, or other public uses, we must acquire the title to them by purchase of them, or by appropriation in regular mode at this moment. The United States, in the acquisition of sites for national cemeteries in those States, acquires title in the same way. The Federal courts sit in court houses owned or leased by the United States—not in court houses of the States. The United States pays each of these States for the use of their jails. Finally, the United States levies its direct tax and its internal revenue upon the property in these States, including productions of lands within their territorial limits, not by way of contributions in the character of a conquered people, but in the regular way of taxation, under the same laws which apply to all the other States of the Union, from first to last. During the rebellion, and since, the title of each of these States to the lands and public buildings owned by them, has never been disturbed. Not a foot of it has ever been acquired by the United States, even under the title of confiscation, and not a foot has ever been taxed under Federal laws.

In conclusion, I must respectfully call the attention of Congress to the consideration of one more question arising under the bill. It vests in the military commanders, subject only to the approval of the general of the army of the United States, an unlimited power to remove from office any civil or military officer in each of the ten States; and further power, subject to the same approval, to detail or appoint any officer or soldier of the United States to perform the duties of the officers removed, and fill all vacancies occurring in those States by death, resignation or otherwise. The military appointee thus required to perform the duties of a civil officer, according to the laws of the States, and as such, is required to take an oath, is, for the time being, a civil officer. What is his character? Is he a civil officer of the State or a civil officer of the United States? Where is the Federal power under our Constitution which authorizes his appointment by any Federal officer? If, however, he is to be considered a civil officer of the United States, as his appointment and oath would seem to indicate, where is the authority for his appointment by the Constitution—the power of appointment of all officers of the United States, civil or military, where not provided in the Constitution, is vested in the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, with this exception, that Congress, by law, vests the appointment of such inferior officers as they think proper in the President alone, in courts of law or in the heads of departments; but by this bill these are to be considered as officers, within the meaning of the Constitution, which does not provide for their appointment by the President alone, or by courts of law, or by heads of departments, but vests appointments in a subordinate officer. So, if we put this question and fix the character of this military appointee, either way, this provision of the bill is equally opposed to the Constitution. Take the case of a soldier appointed to perform the office of Judge in one of these States, and as such to administer the proper laws of the State, where is the authority to be found in the Constitution vesting in a military or in an executive officer, strictly judicial functions to be exercised under the State law? It has been again decided by the Supreme Court of the United States that the acts of Congress which have attempted to vest executive powers in the judicial courts or judges of the United States are not warranted by the Constitution. If Congress cannot clothe a judge with executive duties, how can they clothe an officer or soldier of the army with judicial duties of the United States, who are not in the military or naval service? So, too, it has been repeatedly decided that Congress cannot require a State officer, executive or judicial, to perform any duty enjoined on him by a law of the United States. How can Congress confer power upon an executive officer of the United States to perform such duties in a State? If Congress could not vest in a judge of one of these States any judicial authority under the United States by direct enactment, how can it accomplish the same thing indirectly by removing a judge and putting an officer of the United States in his place. To me these considerations are conclusive of the unconstitutionality of the part of the bill before me; and I earnestly commend this consideration to the deliberate judgment of Congress. Within a period of less than a year, the legislation of Congress has attempted to strip the Executive department of the government of some of its executive powers. The Constitution and the oath provided in it devolved on the President the power and duty to see that the laws are faithfully executed. The Constitution, in order to carry out this power, gives him choice of the agents, and makes them subject to his control and supervision; but in the execution of these laws the Constitutional obligation upon the President remains, but the power to exercise that Constitutional duty is effectually taken away. The military commander is, as to the power of appointment, made to take the place of the President, and Generals of the army the place of the Senate, and any attempt on the part of the President to assert his own Constitutional power, may, under pretense of law, be met by official insubordination. It is to be feared these military officers, looking to the authority given by these laws, other than to the Constitution, will recognize no authority but the commanders of districts, and to the General of the army. If there were no other objections than this to the proposed legislation, it would be sufficient. Whilst I hold the chief executive authority of the United States, and whilst the obligation rests on me to see that all laws are faithfully executed, I cannot ever willingly surrender that trust or powers given for its execution; I can never give my assent to be made responsible for the faithful inforcement of laws, and, at the same time, surrender that trust and power which accompany any other executive officer, high or low, or any number of his executive powers. If these executive trusts, vested by the Constitution in the President, are to be taken from him and vested in a subordinate officer, the responsibility will be with Congress in clothing the subordinates with unconstitutional power, and with the officer who assumes its exercise. This interference with the constitutional authority of the Executive Department is an evil that will inevitably sap the foundations of our federal system. But it is not the worst evil of this legislation; it is a great public wrong to take from the President the power conferred on him alone by the Constitution. But the wrong is more flagrant and more dangerous when the powers so taken from the President are conferred on subordinates, executive officers, and especially upon military officers over nearly one-third of the States of the Union where military power, regulated by no fixed laws, rules supreme. Each of the District Commanders, though not chosen by the people, or responsible to them, exercises at this hour more executive power, military and civil, than the people have been willing to confer upon the head of the executive department, though chosen by and responsible to themselves, the remedy must come from the people themselves. They know what it is, and how it is to be applied. At the present time they cannot, according to the forms of the Constitution, repeal these laws. They cannot remove or control this military despotism. The remedy is, nevertheless, in their hands. It is to be found in the ballot, and is a sure one, if not controlled by fraud, and awed by arbitrary power, or from apathy on their part too long delayed. With an abiding confidence in their patriotism, wisdom and integrity, I am still hopeful of the future, and that in the end the rod of despotism will be broken, the armed heel of power be lifted from the necks of the people, and the principles of a violated Constitution preserved.

(Signed) ANDREW JOHNSON.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 19, 1867.

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The new Reconstruction bill is now a law, having passed both Houses of Congress over the President's veto by the required constitutional two-thirds majority.

A special to the New York Tribune says the President's veto was approved by the entire Cabinet except Stanton.

WORCESTER, MASS., July 20.—Walter Brown, the champion American oarsman, pulled his shell boat three miles against tide in twenty-three minutes.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 20.—The Constitutional convention took up the resolution declaring persons of African descent entitled to the same rights and immunities as persons of European descent. The amendment that all questions as to submitting this or any part of the Constitution framed by this Convention as a separate question to the people be deferred until the whole Constitution is framed, was adopted by a vote of 68 to 41. The above subject has been sharply debated for two or three days past.

EDITORIAL
THE PEN IS MIGHTIER THAN THE SWORD

SUNDAY, : : : : : : : : : : : : JULY 21, 1867

AS THE election approaches the Radicals have commenced manufacturing the most unmitigated falsehoods. We publish the following letter from Senator WILSON, of Massachusetts, to Governor BROWNLOW, as a specimen:

From the Knoxville Whig.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 13, 1867.

HON. W. G. BROWNLOW—My Dear Sir: I have just had a visit from a Mr. Roberts, who presented me letters of introduction from gentlemen in Government employ. He tells me that on his way here he stopped at Memphis, and while there had a conversation with a person named "Galloway," editor of a newspaper, who stated to him that there were 7000 negroes registered, but that they did not intend to permit them to vote; that they would have 2000 whites at the polls armed, who would take possession of the polls and drive the negroes away, or make a fight if they persisted in attempting to vote, and that he, Galloway, should take two "Derringer" pistols. We are all anxious for the success of the party, and though there may be no truth in the story, I thought it advisable to give it to you as I heard it, in order that you may be prepared for such an emergency, and be forearmed by being forewarned. Trusting there may be no foundation for this story, and with my best wishes for your success, believe me,

Very truly yours, H. WILSON.

The Massachusetts cobbler writes with the consciousness of guilt. He exhibits a wickedness that is willful, and an ignorance that is disgraceful. If the devil were made sick by a ton of tartar emetic upon his stomach, he could not in a hundred years vomit up a blacker clot of falsehood than is contained in the above extract. We have no acquaintance with "a Mr. ROBERTS," who has "letters of introduction from gentlemen in Government employ." We have said nothing to any one on this subject that we have not said in these columns. We have said, and still say, that a riot is most imminent on the day of the election. The whole course of the Radical party since the commencement of the campaign has been an invocation to violence. The Radicals have rode citizens on rails, murdered others in cold blood, and have undoubtedly provoked riots at Brownsville and at Franklin, and we have warned the people of the imminent danger of a riot in Memphis on account of the incendiary teachings of Radicalism. They have threatened to take possession of the polls on the day of election, and, sustained by the militia and a corrupt partizan police, our people may expect any outrage, and we have advised them to be prepared for any emergency. If the excesses of the Radicals were imitated by the Conservatives, our streets would soon be drenched in blood. While we advise our friends to be firm, we invoke them to be careful in avoiding all noisy demonstrations, to provoke no criminations or recriminations, and to enter into no disputes with those who are eager for a quarrel, but to rally around the ballot box as the palladium of their liberties.

IN the drama of RICHELIEU there is a scene unrivaled in literature for its moral grandeur and impressiveness. No one, however base, can witness its presentation without being elevated for a while at least to the lofty plane of virtue. However passing the emotion of honest sight may be, even the most abandoned may experience a thrill of integrity, whenever the passage is read or spoken. When the minions of a weak and dissolute monarch, pursuing the lovely niece of the great Cardinal for the purpose of prostituting her to the lusts of a royal profligate, found her under the protection of the then fallen minister, where she had fled, ignorant of the disaster which had just befallen her uncle, neither respect for the majesty of greatness, nor the memories of all that the disgraced minister had accomplished for the glory and prosperity of France, restrained them, or was sufficient to deter them from dragging to dishonor the fugitive girl, who had fled from the palace to save the virtue of a woman and a wife. RICHELIEU appealed to them, by every consideration that could move gentlemen or citizens. All was unavailing. The brutal executioners of a King's lustful orders approached to seize the fair fugitive and tear her from the protection of her guardian. At that moment the Cardinal opening, the robe of State, that enveloped his aged form, exposed to view the simple vestments of a monk in orders; and summoning to his eyes their loftiest glance, and to his stooping figure its grandest pose, he defied them in the name of his sacred office, and drawing around his niece the consecrated circle of the Holy Church, forbade them to enter within its boundaries. Awe struck, the unprincipled wretches fled before the terrific invocations of a church whose terrors would master where its principles of virtue could not control. In these degenerate days, when we witness those great principles of law, which were intended to protect the person, property and lives of our citizens, for the preservation of which the noblest blood of Saxon, Dane, and Norman has flowed, and which our fathers amid great agonies transmitted to us, hourly violated by the factious villians who control the country, this scene often recurs to us. Alas! we are more miserable than even France under LOUIS XIII, when the reins of power fell for a time from the hands of the Cardinal Minister. There was at least one moral power before which the scoundrelism of that day cowered, and to which it yielded an unwilling homage. That was the Church. What house of refuge have we to which persecuted right can fly, and where the hunted victim can find safety. Before the sad experience of the present era, it could not be conceived that the descendants of free born Brittons would ever dethrone law, or drag in the dirt the ermine. Never before in the history of this land has it been boldly avowed, that might is law. Never before has the spectacle been witnessed in this country of an attempt on the part of government to obtain the conviction of the accused by suborned testimony, and an intemperately prejudiced, if not a bribed judge. Heretofore when the law threw around the unfortunate its sacred circle none dared to enter. The States never dreamed of staining the current of justice, however ardent the prosecution, by perjury, or of pouring into the channels of judicial investigation, the purchased evidence of wretches, and notoriously profligate and criminal characters for the purpose of hounding to the death an innocent man. We remember the day, when even the bare suspicion of such an attempt on the part of the Government would have doomed to everlasting infamy every participant in so shameful and wicked a proceeding, and would have ground to powder any party that dared to uphold or apologise for it. Then law ruled supreme, and walked our land in a serene majesty that none dare approach with passion or corruption. Then the advocate fearlessly pealed forth his defense, however obnoxious it might be to the temper of the hearer, conscious that none would dare even to criticise harshly his zeal on behalf of the accused, much less intimidate him. None, then, dared to expect that the judge would throw into the wavering balance his prejudice where life and death hung in the scale. Then the representative of the State would have deemed himself forever dishonored to have sought the life of the prisoner on trial by perjury, and would have scorned to call to his aid hired felons with which to procure a conviction. Then the reorganized lawyer moved on a base of dignity and truth that made the profession all powerful, and gave to it a prestige which almost made its members the untitled nobility of the republic. The tribunals of the country were, in influence and loftiness, almost AMPHICTIONIC. Without material power, their deliverances were mightier than an army with banners. The people recognized their purity and intelligence, and yielded cordial obedience to their behests. But how all this has changed! The pitiable exhibition of judicial subserviency and professional baseness now presented at the capital of this great nation is enough to make the good forever despair of liberty in this country. When a military commission, in defiance of law, tried, and with the aid of perjury, skillfully constructed by the infamous HOLT, convicted an innocent woman of a crime of which she never even dreamed; and when that conviction was made more horrible by her murder at the hands of the Government, the nation was dishonored and the party in power loaded with a crime greater and more shocking than ever rested on the populace of the most populous faubourg of Paris in the worst days of the Terrorists. The only hope of escape for the eminently bad men that then and now control, was to raise at least a plausible show of guilt against Mrs. SURRATT, and thus infect, the public mind of the North, then diseased almost to delirium, with a presumption of her complicity in the assassination of LINCOLN. In an unfortunate hour, however, her son, the prisoner now on trial at Washington, was arrested and brought to this country. It was necessary to try him. To have done otherwise would have been to confess the murder of his mother. But to save from infamy the actors in the military commission, who tried her, and the party in power, under whose auspices this drama of blood was enacted for political ends, it was likewise necessary to convict. Shame on the age! Shame on the republic! A great and powerful nation stoops to the base arts of an Old Bailey advocate or Tombs shyster, to convict one friendless young man. To compel a verdict of guilty from the jury, a superserviceable judge outrages all principles of evidence, and a State prosecution by the "best Government" is bolstered up by the infamies of perjury, bought by the money of an overtaxed people, to swear away the life of the accused. To conceal one judicial murder another must be perpetrated. Was there ever such a picture of national baseness, even in the worst days of Roman corruption? We confess that at first we were inclined to believe that young SURRATT was particeps criminis in the death of LINCOLN. But having read closely the evidence already elicited on his trial (and the defense is not yet through), there can be no doubt entertained of his entire innocence of the crime imputed to him. The evidence likewise reveals, in the most damning clearness, the perjury by which his mother was hung to death. That the jury will convict SURRATT we do not for a moment believe. The rascally press, whose office it is to advocate every villainy perpetrated by the party in power, already give signs of the want of faith in the success of the prosecution. These newspapers are guilty of the indelicacy of attempting to break down the evidence for the accused, and to influence the jury by attributing to the witnesses for the defense a corrupt bias, on account of their supposed political opinions. This of itself is a great outrage, and no honest man would be guilty of it. The offense becomes more heinous, when it is remembered that the witnesses for the defense are persons of recognized private virtues, bearing most irreproachable characters—men and women the latchets of whose shoes these miscreants are not worthy to unloose. Added to this that the bulk of the witnesses for the prosecution already stand before the public in confessed infamy. Yet a Radical press dares to apologize for the latter and traduce the former. If all the crimes committed by the party now administering our affairs could be aggregated—and they already mount to heaven and descend to hell—not one of the enormous catalogue equals in wide spread ruin and general calamity the overthrow of law by direct assault as well as by corruption, which has been effected through its influence. It commenced its career by sneering at Constitutional law, and consumated its fell purposes by the utter prostration of all law, whether Constitutional or municipal. No intelligent lawyer feels at all secure in the administration of any law or in the impartial application of its principles where any motive intervenes to interrupt the routine flow of justice. The last vestal that guarded the sacred flame of liberty in the Republic has been debauched by these Radical satyrs.

Some ladies, says the Boston Post, blushed deeply at the unbreeched guns in the Springfield armory.

The citizens of Natchez are entering warmly into the project of building a railroad connecting the city with the New Orleans, Jackson and Great Northern railroad.

Two heavy iron bars were placed across the track of the Iron Mountain railroad on Tuesday night last, says the St. Louis Republican, evidently for the purpose of throwing a train off the track.

HOMESTEAD LANDS

FOR SALE.

WE have the pleasure of placing on the market these very desirable and valuable lands, so well known to the community as the Homestead Tract of the late Geraldus Buntyn, Esq., situated at the first station on the Memphis and Charleston railroad, five miles east of the city. The improvements, with about twenty acres of land, have been recently sold to Hume F. Hill, Esq., who now resides upon the premises. The balance of the tract, consisting of about [illegible] acres, has been laid off in lots varying in size from five to ten acres, fronting upon broad avenues, and laid off so as to secure the greatest amount of comfort. The trains of the Memphis and Charleston railroad afford the opportunity of going in and out of the city, from and to Buntyn's Station, four times a day, so as to make a residence at this point almost as convenient as to live in the city itself.

The choice can now be had of lots wholly or part in original forest, or in field.

IN EXCHANGE FOR CITY PROPERTY.

The executors are directed by the will to sell this place and invest in city property, and we will receive propositions to exchange for either improved or vacant lots in the city.

To all parties looking for a suburban residence, we do not think any property more desirable can be found, in regard to health, convenience or good neighborhood, within the same distance from the city.

The terms will be made very liberal and easy, and the prices low to parties desirous of buying for occupation.

Plans of the subdivision will be shown at our office.

FRENCH MEDICINES PREPARED BY GRIMAULT & COMPANY,

Chemists to His Imperial Highness Prince Napoleon.

THESE different medicines represent the most recent medical discoveries, founded on the principles of chemistry and therapeutics. They must not be confounded with secret or quack medicines, as their names sufficiently indicate their composition; a circumstance which has caused them to be appreciated and prescribed by the faculty in the whole world. They widely differ from those numerous medicines advertised in the public papers as able to cure every possible disease, as they are applicable only to but a very few complaints. The most stringent laws exist in France with regard to the sale of medical preparations, and only those which have undergone an examination by the Academy of Medicine, and have been proved efficacious, either in the hospitals or in the practice of the first medical men, are authorized by the government. This fact must be a guarantee for the excellency of Messrs. GRIMAULT & CO.'S medicines.

Dr. Leras' (Doctor of Medicine) Liquid Phosphate of Iron.

The newest and most esteemed medicine in cases of CHLOROSIS, PAINS IN THE STOMACH, DIFFICULT DIGESTION, DISMENORRHEA, ANEMIA, GENERAL DEBILITY and POORNESS OF BLOOD. It is particularly recommended to regulate the functions of nature, and to all ladies of delicate constitution, as well as to persons suffering under any kind of debility whatsoever. It is the preservative of health par excellence in all warm and relaxing climates.

No More Cod Liver Oil—Grimault's Syrup of Iodized Horse Radish.

This medicine has been administered with the utmost success in the hospitals of Paris. It is a perfect substitute for COD LIVER OIL, and has been found most beneficial in DISEASES OF THE CHEST, SCROFULA, LYMPHATIC DISORDERS, GREEN SICKNESS, MUSCULAR ATONY and LOSS OF APPETITE. It regenerates the constitution in purifying the blood, it being the most powerful depurative known. It has also been applied with happy results in DISEASES OF THE SKIN. Further, it will be found to be of great benefit to young children subject to HUMORS and OBSTRUCTION OF THE GLANDS.

Consumption Cured—Grimault's Syrup of Hypophosphite of Lime.

This new medicine is considered to be a sovereign remedy in cases of PHTHISIS and other DISEASES OF THE LUNGS. It promptly removes all the most serious symptoms. The cough is relieved, night perspirations cease, and the patient is rapidly restored to health.

N. B.—Be sure to see that the signature of GRIMAULT & CO. is affixed to the bottle, as this syrup is liable to imitations.

No More Difficult or Painful Digestion—Dr. Burin du Buisson's (Laureate of the Paris Imperial Academy of Medicine) Digestive Lozenges.

This delicious preparation is always prescribed by the most reputed medical men in France in cases of derangements of the digestive functions, such as GASTRITIS, GASTRALGIA, LONG AND LABORIOUS DIGESTION, wind in the stomach and bowels, EMACIATION, JAUNDICE and COMPLAINTS OF THE LIVER AND LOINS.

Nervous Headaches, Neuralgia, Diarrhea, Dysentery, Instantly Cured by Grimault's Guarana.

This vegetable substance, which grows in the Brazils, has been employed since time immemorial to cure INFLAMMATION OF THE BOWELS. It has proved of late to be of the greatest service in cases of CHOLERA, as it is preventive and a cure in cases of Diarrhea.

Ferro Manganic Powder, prepared by Burin du Buisson, approved by the Academy of Medicine in Paris.

A small quantity of this powder in a glass of water is sufficient to obtain instantly an effervescing mineral and gaseous water to be drank at meals, either pure or mixed with wine.

It is a most valuable medicine for persons suffering from Chlorosis, Stomach Aches, and for Ladies suffering from difficult or Suspended Menstruation. It is especially recommended to persons unable to digest the ordinary medicines containing iron.

This celebrated preparation has the advantage to prevent all tendency to constipation, and to contain a certain portion of manganese, considered by the most eminent medical men as indispensable in cases of treatment by ferruginous medicines.

No More Copaiba and Cubebs—Grimault's Capsules and Liquid Extract of Matico Vegetalis.

Where all other medicines have failed, these preparations will always effect a cure. They insure rapid and extraordinary cure of severe, recent and chronic cases of private diseases. They are used in the hospitals of Paris by the celebrated Dr. Ricord, and are found greatly superior to all hitherto known mineral remedies and copaiba and cubebs. The injection is used in recent and capsules in the more chronic cases.

SECOND DRAWING

OF THE

SOUTHERN ASYLUM LAND CO.

TO BE HELD

AT HERNANDO, MISS, AUGUST, 1867

THE FIRST DRAWING, which took place at Hernando Miss., on the 15th instant, was attended with unusual success, when it is remembered that but a few weeks elapsed from the inception of the enterprise to that event. Seventeen thousand dollars worth of tickets having been sold, a like amount of property was drawn for, under the supervision of gentlemen selected by the ticket holders present. The utmost harmony and good feeling pervaded those present, and, as will be seen from the subjoined certificate of the managers, the affair was conducted to a close in a most gratifying and satisfactory manner:

HERNANDO, MISS., June 15, 1867.

We hereby certify, that the above report of the first drawing of the Southern Asylum is correct, and that the proceedings were characterized by a spirit of fairness and justness unsurpassed by any drawing of which we have any knowledge. The managers of the Company placed the tickets and wheels under our sole management and control.

Every one who wishes to enjoy himself as in the good old time before the war, should attend the barbecue given by the "Old Folks at Home," on the 25th inst., at Buntyn's station, on the Memphis and Charleston railroad. 'Tis sufficient for many, or nearly all, of our readers to know that that urbane gentleman, Colonel John L. Saffarans, Chief Marshal of the Day, assisted by the no less gentlemanly and polite Aids, Messrs. John Park, ex-mayor, and John Wilkerson, will do the honors of the occasion, to induce them to attend in masses, confident of a pleasant day in the country. Trains leave the depot according to the schedule as set forth in their advertisement, to which we direct especial attention.

Save money and go to the great clearing sale of dry goods, etc., at Elson's, 297 Main street.

Ladies, look at those cheap domestics and ten-four sheetings at M. Kraus & Co.'s, No. 213 Main street. They must be closed out within the next ten days.

Chelsea Baptist Church.—A revival of religion has been in progress in this church for several nights, and much interest is being manifested. After preaching on Friday night, by Rev. A. B. Miller, fifteen persons were received for baptism, who will be baptized at the First Baptist Church to-night. Rev. Mr. Caperton will preach at this church (Chelsea) this morning, at the usual hour, but his congregation will worship with the First Church at night. The Rev. Mr. Caperton is a most active and laborious pastor, and we gladly note his success. The daily pastor is often, if not always, more successful than the Sabbath preacher.

Country stores wanting to replenish their stocks will do well by going to Elson's great clearing sale.

Ed. Worsham, 22 Jefferson street, received by last night's mail, Chimney Corner, Literary Album, Frank Leslie's, Metropolitan Record, Waverley Magazine, Wilkes' Spirit of the Times, Field, Turf and Farm, Clipper, Harper's Weekly, Belletriches Journal, New York Staats Zeitung, Irish Republic, Irish American, Irish People, New York Ledger, Every Saturday, Lady's Friend, Democrat, Harper's Magazine, Frank Leslie's Magazine, Godey's Lady's Book for August, Nick Nax for August. Give Ed. a call. If Ed. ain't there Cliff will accommodate you.

TRY YOUR LUCK.

One Dollar will Make You Comfortable for Life.

The August and September drawings of the the Southern Asylum attract a large share of attention. The press and people everywhere commend not only the charitable but social and political policy of the institution. There is not anywhere in the South a more valuable plantation than that of Mr. Jones, equally divided by the railroad, within one mile of the State House, at Jackson, Mississippi, and surely there is not a more desirable homestead than that which constitutes the capital prize in the Farmers' Scheme.

Two hundred acres, with fine improvements, on the Mississippi and Tennessee railroad, thirteen miles from Memphis, would do very well for one dollar. Try your luck. There are about forty such prizes in the Farmers' Scheme.

Colonel Gallaway's residence, the capital prize, in the other August drawing, is known to everybody. It is certainly worth five dollars, and this is all that it will cost its next owner.

ITEMITAS.

M. H. Reilly, Esq., a well known and worthy citizen, is about to go North on a fortnight visit.

In a little fracas yesterday Tim Hickey smote a man.

John Myers is charged with stealing a pair of derringer pistols from Mr. Partman.

William Trosh is under arrest for stealing sixty-five dollars John from Drummond.

William Curtis is charged with stealing fourteen dollars and a fine gold watch from Mr. Herrick.

Music has riz. One of our bands recently asked thirty-two dollars for playing two pieces.

Zack Marston, a colored person, is under arrest for making away with his wife's clothes.

Ned Pelser is under arrest for stealing seven dollars and some tobacco from Mr. Brownfield.

Jim Hand is accused of stealing twenty-one dollars from Mr. Hubbard.

Paul Cook is under arrest for stealing sixty dollars from John Custon.

Bill Horn, a negro, is under arrest for stealing a mule from Van Brocklen.

John Robinson is charged with stealing $200 and a suit of clothes from Mr. Hite.

Sam Lewis, a colored man, was arrested for stealing a coop containing two dozen chickens from Lewis Smith.

Ned Stephens stole, it is alleged, half a dozen hams and a barrel of flour from McGhee & Co., on Front Row.

Mike O'Brien is charged with carrying a joke too far. He carried off a barrel of ale from Sam's House, on Jefferson street.

The public entertainment of the Mathian Association on Monday evening in the Tabernacle, on Court street, will be a fine intellectual treat.

A meeting was had, on last Friday night, to arrange a new literary and fine art association in this city.

The order proposed in the County Board by Dr. White, for a succinct statement of the finances of the county, was very promptly laid upon the table.

All overseers of the roads of Shelby county are required to report, by October 1st, the condition of the roads under their charge.

Pat Johnson is under arrest for wrongfully taking a trunk containing one hundred dollars worth of goods belonging to Mr. Wm. McGinnis.

The colored boys have started two new base ball clubs. One is called the Brownlow and the other the Ben Butler Club.

The St. George Cricket Club will, on some day next week, play a match with the Crescent city club of New Orleans.

The mackerels seem to have taken up their summer quarters on the old steamer Bostona, and to be keeping bachelor's hall there.

John Harris, a negro, is charged with obtaining five hundred dollars worth of goods from Mr. Ayers by false pretenses.

Sam Harris, a colored man, is under arrest for attempting to set fire to the house of Mr. Simpson on Court street.

Music for the old folks' pic nic will be furnished by the old Memphis brass and string band, under the direction of Professor Andrew Schmitt

John G. Wallace, Esq., a gentleman of sterling integrity, who was formerly engaged in mercantile business here, left last evening for a visit to the North.

O. E. Walters, Esq., is meeting with much success in the introduction of the Hillman school books, and will shortly establish a depot in this city for their sale.

Sears, Smith and Humphrey are to get six thousand dollars from the County Commissioners for making a complete map of Shelby county, showing every tract of one hundred acres or more.

The friends of G. P. Ware, Esq., think that he was rejected in the Radical convention by preconcerted trickery, and they intend to press his claims for the Sheriffalty when an election for that place comes off.

The county Court House, at Raleigh, has been granted to David Laughlin to keep in it a high school. This was the milk in Dr. White's recent resolutions about a county high school, "et setery," as Artemus Ward would say.

Hack No. 141 was yesterday standing opposite Holt's undertaker store on Main street, when the horses took fright and dashed furiously up the street. At Jefferson street they ran over dray No. 76, belonging to John Waggener, who was somewhat hurt, as also was his mule.

Manager Thompson writes that he is meeting with fine success, and will have for the next theatrical season a fuller roll of first class actors and actresses than ever before made their appearance on the boards of the New Memphis Theater.

The City School Board will shortly call a popular election to determine whether two hundred thousand dollars shall be spent for the erection of a large building for a central high school. This seems to mean a little counter to Dr. White's pet project of having a high school at Raleigh.

Somebody intimates that Richards and little Smith were not the only recipients of perquisites when the fare on the street railroad was raised from five to ten cents. Barbour Lewis was pretty lucky. The First National Bank is understood to have rewarded his public services in fixing Richards and Smith.

The programme for the Tuesday evening entertainment for the benefit of the widows and orphans promises a more than usually attractive literary treat. The music will be of a high order, and the recitations by some of the most promising young elocutionists in our city, should draw a large attendance, even if the object was not as noble, as charitable as it is.

It is said in excuse for the nomination of Mr. Hamilton, at the Radical convention, that before the meeting the anti Eaton party had applied to eighteen others to accept the nomination, but none of them would consent to run. They went into the meeting without any candidate, and then for the first time the name of Hamilton was proposed.

A man named Joe Campbell is charged with setting fire to the house at the corner of Gayoso and Main streets yesterday morning. It is alleged that Job was seen pouring coal oil on the flames. When first the fire was discovered, half a dozen buckets of water would have extinguished it. On Thursday the premises were insured.

About two o'clock yesterday morning, a fire broke out in the block on the northwest corner of Gayoso and Main streets. It was the work of an incendiary. Twice before, within a recent period, has the same house been set on fire. This time smoke issued from near the roof. The alarm was given, and the firemen were promptly there, and worked with energy, and the flames were extinguished. Most of the damage was done by water.

The speeches and proceedings in the Radical Convention on Friday night fully justified all that Conservatives have charged in relation to proscription, the stirring up of bad blood, the exciting a war of races. Mr. Davis, the wet nurse of Memphis Radicalism, admitted this publicly. Little Daily, unmindful of his own antecedents, and anxious to secure the colored vote when a wharfmaster has to be chosen, declared no colored man could, and he would not, vote for any man who had been guilty of the infamy of holding or selling slaves. Carter declared that colored men could not, and he had sworn before God that he would not ever, vote for any man who had been a rebel soldier or a slaveholder or slave trader. This programme will ostracise the great body of Southern white people. It rules out Davis and most of the Southern Radicals. It rules out Beaumont and Ryder and Dave Nunn; but the colored reverend, Shaw, pretty strongly intimated that that was his platform and the platform of the colored voters, that he went with. Radicalism is just now in a quandary.

The vote of Ryder to inforce the collection of State and county taxes for 1862, 1863 and 1864, is justified by the Radical organ on the ground that Shelby county has paid such taxes, and Ryder wanted other counties to do so. This is not so. The State and county taxes in Shelby county had not been paid—not a dollar of such taxes have ever gone in the State treasury. There was a meeting here once to ask General Sherman to issue an order to authorize John H. Bowen to collect such taxes. Mr. Ryder was in favor of such collection. B. F. C. Brooks, Esq., at that meeting, if we remember correctly, spoke strongly against such a pressure upon the people of Shelby county. The meeting refused to ask General Sherman to issue the order. If anybody collected State taxes there is no record of it. If anybody collected county taxes it is unknown. Mr. Ryder's vote to collect those onerous taxes cannot be excused by such a dodge.

The damaged stock of dry goods at M. Kraus & Co.'s, No. 213 Main street, must be closed within the next ten days.

Attention, Fenians.—In pursuance of the resolution passed at the late public meeting in the City Hall, all the members enrolled that night, and all members of the present Circle, are requested to meet at Fenian Hall, corner of Jackson and Main streets, on Monday evening, July 22d, at 8 o'clock, as business of the utmost importance will be laid before the meeting. It is desirable that there should be a full attendance. Colonel Phelan will be present to submit plans for future action.

By order of M. Conlon, Center.

The last chance for cheap damaged goods at M. Kraus & Co.'s, No. 231 Main street. They must be closed out within the next ten days.

Transfer of Real Estate.—Charles Johnson to Gabriel Littlejohn, lease, ten years, one half of lot No. 5 of Armon and Cox's subdivision of Whitney tract, fronting twenty five feet on the west side of Lauderdale street, and running back westward toward the Memphis and Charleston railroad depot, $62 per year, semi annually.

Decree of Chancery Court to Abraham Just; land described in exhibit A, in cause of Abraham Just, vs Charles Erck, et al.

N. Shafer, et al. to William A. Brown; deed $1,800; land nine miles east of Memphis, near White's station, two lots of land on the Memphis and Charleston railroad, 46 9-100 acres.

Thomas B. McEwen to B. M. Estes, et al.; deed $10,739; lot of land and building, south side of Adams street, near Front, part of lot No. 75, south side of Adams street, twenty-two feet eight inches by fifty feet, with three story brick store house.

New Developments Concerning Barbour's Former Life.

It has often been our duty since its organization, to call attention to the doings and actions of our County Commissioners; and as one new feature after another discovers itself to the wondering public gaze, we sigh in vain to know when the end will come.

A repetition, yesterday, of former actions was varied not a little by some pungent remarks between two of the members of the Board, which remarks, had they been made between gentlemen, under like circumstances, would certainly have led to something more serious than in the present case, although, after a careful review of the circumstances, we are tempted to sanction rather than condemn the course of Dr. White in the matter, who may have had serious doubts about the propriety, under the circumstances, of rendering himself filthy by chastising his assailant, the redoubtable Barbour Lewis, judge, etc., etc.

As our citizens are well aware, there has been for some time a division in the Radical camp—a kind of a fiery family quarrel as to the relative merits of some of its leaders to hold certain offices. So warm and excited has this quarrel become of late, that blows may be expected before long; always provided, that either one of the contending parties will face each other long enough to strike a blow. Well, it seems that some time since, "the Board" voted Judge (God save the mark) Waldran $15 a month to rent a private office to practice law in, while his valuable time should not be required in the Municipal Court. On yesterday Dr. White offered a resolution that a room be furnished to Judge Hunter, for his use, for the which the county should pay, not to exceed $20 per month. The fiery "Barbour" could see no reason why his personal enemy in the Radical split should have any favor shown him by the "Honorable Board," and denounced the resolution as being one that claimed an appropriation of the county funds for an illegal purpose, and called upon the Board to heed well their action before they voted for any such resolution. Mr. Merriman, in his usually concise way, announced himself in favor of Dr. White's resolution, as did also Mein Herr F. A. Louis, while his Honor, Judge Hack, declared in favor of "the Barber" and the law, no correct reason being formed by any who listened as to how he came to mix two such ideas in one sentence as being in favor of Chairman Lewis and the law in the premises. As will be seen by a review of the ground, things commenced to assume a hostile attitude toward the Chair, and Barbour saw defeat staring him in the face. Like Satan, however, he determined to make one more effort, and secure, if possible, the defeat of Hunter. Resting upon the back of his dignified belly, assuming a knowing air, and putting on one of his blandest smiles, during which last operation desperation could be seen in his every feature, he spoke again, first giving a slight nod to his colleague, Mein Herr Louis, who sat on his left: "Gentlemen, I charge you to be careful how you vote for this measure, and thus squander the public money away; that you will be held to a strict account for [his Satanic Majesty's most gracious imp must have forgotten that he voted against letting the people know what was done with the county money a day or two before] all of it. Our County Attorney has told you that you could not pay for lights or fuel for the judges; now, how can you pay for a room for any of them." And with a refrain from Hack, "that I am for the law as Judge Lewis says," the "Barbour" subsided.

After Mr. Merriman had again affirmed his former opinion and conviction, the following conversation occured, which deserves insertion in full, "verbatim et seriatim."

Dr. White—Why did you vote to give Judge Waldran a room rent free?

Barbour Lewis—We did no such thing. Out of the generosity of our hearts we choose to give Judge Waldran (since you have brought the matter up) fifteen dollars a month toward paying for his room; he being a kind of chamber lawyer. [We think so, too.—Eds.] And if we did do one wrong thing is that any sign we should do another. I am opposed to this public squandering of money.

Dr. White—You are no such thing. If you were you would not have voted against investigating Judge Leonard's books.

Barbour Lewis—That's false.

Dr. White—I say you did, and its on record.

Barbour Lewis—That's infamously false. I did no such thing.

Dr. White—I shall take no exceptions to what you say. There is no person in the community that would regard a word you said.

Barbour Lewis—My character has been held fair in this community, and every other one in which I lived.

Dr. White—Yes, by one man, and that's yourself."

Very sensible remark, Doctor, for if is there is a solitary mortal who is recognized by the community, but himself, who thinks for a moment that Barbour Lewis has a fair reputation, it is time he was undeceiving himself.

The conversation before narrated made the German Louis to stagger a little, and, unmindful of our former charge that he must do as his master does, he swings entirely around the circle and joins "the Barber," for which he receives a smile, accompanied by the remark: "You did right. I am glad of it." But Dr. White had worked too hard to thus early lose the victory, and by dint of taunting "the German," Lewis again forced him to change his vote, and then calling the question, succeeded in passing his resolution, the vote being three to two. Such scenes truly disgust us, and we hardly have the patience to enumerate them. Grandma Hunter has his room, and Barbour's mad. We do wish that Barbour would display as much temper toward a boy of ours, aged fourteen years, as he did yesterday, and the community would have an opportunity of seeing a man with his size of belly confoundedly well whipped. We notify the huge incubus that holds on to the public teat so hard, that we have received some more reminiscences of his former life, when he taught school in Mobile, before they had nigger children to educate; how he came to study law, and also some of the fair spots in his character in that community, which can never be obliterated. Dr. White, keep on in your good work. You are entitled to the thanks of the community, and the county can well afford to pay you for your time, when so employed, for you could do no better service than to show the vileness of this reptile.

The investigation, on question of bail, was resumed last evening in case of Fred. Russer, indicted for the murder of Moses Hecht. The testimony introduced by the State, proved that the defendant was seen to break in the door of the bedroom of the deceased and shoot him while lying on the bed, without any apparent provocation.

The theory of the defense seems to be temporary insanity, caused by alleged crim. con. on the part of the deceased with the wife of the defendant at some time prior to the homicide. The investigation will last several days.

BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

At a called meeting of the Board of Mayor and Aldermen of the city of Memphis, on Saturday evening July 20, 1867: Present—Hon. W. O. Lofland, Mayor, Chairman Harbor, Aldermen Cochran, Amis, Wickersham, Bolling, Lynn, Hoist, Smith, Lemons and Passmore.

A quorum being announced, the Chairman took his seat and called the Board to order, when the roll of Aldermen was called. Thereupon his Honor, the Mayor, stated the object of the meeting to be for the purpose of receiving the contracts as signed by Messrs. Forrest and others, contractors for street paving, etc.

When the bond of the contractors, Messrs. Forrest, McGavock, J. E. Montgomery and Joseph Mitchell was presented.

Alderman Amis offered the following:

Resolved, That the Mayor be instructed to sign all the contracts with Forrest, Montgomery & Co., as presented herewith.

Adopted.

The Mayor also called the attention of the Board to the necessity of making some prompt move in relation to sanitary matters.

Alderman Passmore offered the following ordinance:

Be it ordained by the Board of Mayor and Aldermen of the city of Memphis:

That the property owners fronting upon the following streets in the city, to-wit: Main, from Auction to South; Poplar, from Front to the corporation line; Jefferson, from Front to Mendenhall and Charleston depot; Beale, from Shelby to Wellington; DeSoto, from Madison to south; Shelby, from Union to South; Charleston avenue, from the bayou to Memphis and Charleston depot; Old Madison, from the bayou to the Memphis and Charleston depot; that they pave said streets from sidewalk to center on each of said sides with Nicolson pavement, according to specifications in Engineer's office, except upon streets over which runs the street railroad. Upon those streets said owners will pave to within two feet of said track; and upon said streets and sidewalks will pave within said track and two feet on each side, on or before the first day of September, 1867. Also, owners on the following streets, to-wit: Second, from Market to Beale; Adams, from Front to corporation line; Union, from Front to Wellington; the north and south sides of Court Square, with the Nicolson pavement; Front, from Market to Union street, and the alleys from Front to Main, and from Market to Union streets, between Front and Main, with stone, according to specifications in Engineer's office, by the 2d of August, 1867. And in default, the city will do the same at their cost.

Passed first reading—rules suspended and passed second and final reading.

The following communication was received from Dr. Rice:

MEMPHIS, TENN., July 17, 1867.

To His Honor H. J. Lynn, Esq., Acting Mayor:

Sir: Having just been officially informed of my appointment on last evening, by the Board of Mayor and Aldermen, to a position on the Board of Health, I take the earliest opportunity at my command to respectfully decline an acceptance of the situation.

Among many objections which could be mentioned to the recent amended Ordinance, under which I was appointed on the Board of Health, it is sufficient only to say, at present, that if I accepted the appointment, it would place me in a position where I could do nothing to promote the sanitary interests of the city, and where I would be held responsible by the public for acts and expenditures over which I could exercise no control.

Respectfully your obedient servant,

FRANK RICE.

Accepted.

ORDINANCES.

By Alderman Passmore:

Be it ordained by the Board of Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Memphis:

That the sanitary ordinance passed at an adjourned meeting, on the 11th day of July, 1867, be and the same is hereby repealed, and the ordinance heretofore adopted by this Board, and embodied in Bridges' Digest, adopted on the 2d day of July, 1867, be the same is hereby reordained and adopted in full force, except such parts as may conflict with the Metropolitan Sanitary Police.

Passed first reading. Rules suspended, and passed second and final reading.

The following communication was received from Alderman D. H. Townsend:

To the Honorable Board of Mayor and Aldermen of the city of Memphis:

Gentlemen—Finding it impossible longer to serve the city without loosing my self respect I have determined to tender to your honorable body my resignation.

Hoping you may view it in the same light I have, and that it will meet with your favorable consideration,

I remain yours most respectfully,

D. H. TOWNSEND.

Read and accepted.

It was moved and seconded that the vacancy occasioned by Alderman Townsend's resignation be at once filled.

Concurred in.

When Messrs. Comer and C B. Church were placed in nomination.

On the first ballot C. B. Church received six votes, and was declared duly elected to fill Alderman Townsend's place.

His Honor the Mayor then nominated sundry physicians as a Board of Health, which nomination were unanimously concurred in: Dr. Frazer, Dr. Grant, Dr. Pittman, Dr. Sims, Dr. Knode, Dr. Irwin, Dr. Brown and Dr. A. K. Taylor.

COMMUNICATION.

By Alderman Amis:

MEMPHIS, TENN., July 17, 1867.

To the Honorable Board of Mayor and Aldermen of the city of Memphis and J. P. Foster, City Engineer:

As the owner of the land and premises on the north side of Adams street, next (east) to the residence of Mr. William Park, I protest against the change of grade of Adams street, and the curbing and sidewalk on Adams street, in front of said property, and I will hold the city authorities, and all others who may be liable therefor, responsible for all damages to the property caused thereby. I shall resist the payment of any paving or curbing tax on the lot if the grade is changed as contemplated.

Very respectfully,

CHAS KORTRECHT,

For himself and his wife Augusta Kortrecht.

Referred to Committee on Grades.

MEMPHIS, July 20, 1867.

To the Honorable Board of Mayor and Aldermen of the city of Memphis:

Your petitioner would respectfully represent to your honorable Board that the culvert built across Union street, at the intersection of Second has not the capacity to carry off the water. The consequence is that every rain which falls overflows the gutters and fills the cellars. The last rain which fell flooded the cellar under the Opera Hall. I would recommend to your honorable Board that the culvert be dispensed with, and let the water pass off, as it has been done on other streets.

Very respectfully,

W. B. GREENLAW.

Referred to City Engineer.

RESOLUTIONS.

By Alderman Shaw:

Resolved, etc., That the thanks of the Board be tendered to Alderman Townsend for the fidelity and ability he has displayed in discharging his duties as a member of the Board.

Adopted.

By Alderman Wickersham:

Resolved, etc., That the Sergeant at Arms shall notify the physicians elected as a Board of Health, also the Chief of the Police, to meet in the Mayor's office on Monday, July 22, at three p.m., for organization.

Adopted.

And thereupon the Board adjourned.

City Register.

RIVER NEWS.

DAILY AVALANCHE OFFICE,
SUNDAY, July 21, 1867.

BUSINESS—WEATHER—RIVERS.

Weather warm. The river is receding steadily. At St. Louis the river is reported rising slowly. The Ohio is falling, with three feet nine inches in the canal, and five and a half feet on the bars in the lower Ohio. The Arkansas is declining, with six and a half feet to Little Rock. White river is falling slowly, with a good stage to Augusta.

ARRIVALS.

Steamer Pauline Carroll, St. Louis.

DEPARTURES.

Steamer Pauline Carroll, New Orleans.
" Marble City, St. Louis.
" Florence Traber, Cincinnati.
" Sam. J. Hale, Cincinnati.
" Celeste, Little Rock.
" Victor No. 2, Haile's Point.
" Dan Able, Vicksburg.

BOATS IN PORT.

Gleaner.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Business on the wharf and in river circles continues dull, with very little movement in any of the various branches of trade.

The Celeste has been for several days trying to get a trip for the Arkansas. She finally got off last evening half loaded.

The weather is exceedingly warm.

The Great Republic, Captain Donaldson, will be found at the wharf Monday morning, to receive for New Orleans and all way points, and leave at five p.m. Messrs. Barr and Dravo are her clever and accommodating clerks.

The departures of the local packets include the Dan Able for Vicksburg, Victor No. 2 for Haile's Point, Sam J. Hale for Cincinnati with 200 tons of old iron, the Marble City for St. Louis and the Celeste for Little Rock.

Messrs. Martin, Walt & Co., and Frank Hicks, have purchased the steamer Mollie Able for the Memphis and New Orleans trade. The trade was closed last evening, they paying $35,000 to the Atlantic and Mississippi Steamship Line for the boat. Her owners will put $15,000 worth of repairs on her, and convert her into a regular cotton boat.

The Belle Memphis, Captain C. Hemingway, is the regular Monday Cairo and St. Louis packet. Mr. George Dean, a clever gentleman presides in the office.

The Darling is due from Cincinnati, with a full cargo of produce. She returns to Cincinnati on Tuesday at five p.m.

The Mollie Hambleton and Lady are the regular Tuesday Helena and St. Francis river packets.

The Natoma has been rejuvinated, and received a new dress, and will resume her trips in the St. Francis river trade next month.

The regular Tuesday White river mail packet Rowena, in command of John Davis, will be at the wharf Monday morning, ready to receive for her return trip.

The Gleaner, Captain King, is receiving for the Arkansas, and will leave on Monday, at five p.m. W. J. Fenwick officiates in the office.

Cincinnati and Louisville are at daggers' points about their respective bridges. Here is the last volley from Louisville:

"Cincinnati, like the dog with a bone, is beginning to growl and grumble at our bridge over the falls of the Ohio. We can give Cincinnati, and Pittsburg too, for that matter, the assurance that said bridge will never interfere with the fleet of stern wheel dinkies that sail from their ports. Can you say as much of the Cincinnati 'nuisance?'"

The river steamer Flint was burned at the wharf at Mobile, on Thursday morning. Loss, eight thousand dollars; no insurance. The fire is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary.

The Henry M. Shreve, Captain Silver, will leave the city wharf boat on Monday at five p.m.

The Florence Traber left last evening for Cincinnati in charge of Captain Wolfe. On her arrival at Cincinnati she will be repaired and placed in the Tennessee river trade.

The tug Johnson exploded her boiler in Saginaw river on Thursday night, killing Captain Rafferty and three of the crew. The boat is a total loss.

The Sam J. Hale left for Cincinnati with five hundred bales of cotton, and two hundred tons of old iron and army traps.

A beautiful young married lady of high life eloped with a Captain of a St. Louis and New Orleans steamer, at St. Louis, on Thursday. River lords are generally fond of handsome ladies, and they always use precaution to never let them want.

The merchants of Evansville, being a class of live business men, are making strong efforts to secure a large portion of the Vicksburg and bends trade. The Journal of that city says that large orders for produce and provisions are coming in freely from Vicksburg. The Memphis merchants are apparently very indifferent about trade.

A survey of the Illinois river has been commenced, under Government orders, for a projected canal from Chicago to St. Louis, starting from Lake Michigan and extending to Alton, Illinois. It is intended to admit vessels of twelve hundred tons burden.

The St. Patrick will not resume her regular trips until the 6th of August.

Along the lower Ohio there are from five to five and a half feet of water on the shoalest bars, and the river slowly falling.

Cincinnati and Pittsburg are pretty well cut off from river communication, unless the Government starts a machine to cut out the channel or make a little more water.

Captain Dan F. Sayre and others purchased at Cincinnati, on Thursday, the steamer Harry Dean for $16,000. Her new owners will place her in the Cincinnati and Marietta trade.

The tug boat Dispatch left Madison, Indiana, on the 23d of June, with two hay barges in tow for this port, wrecked one of the barges on Hurricane Island, and gave up the trip at Cairo.

Pittsburg dispatches of the 18th instant have the following:

John Chess, of the steamboat Charmer, alleges that William Merrian chartered the boat from him for four weeks, at the rate of $100 per week, and at the expiration of the time for which the boat was chartered the defendant gave a check on the Central National Bank of Cincinnati for $400, representing that he had money there and that the check would be honored when presented. The check was taken by Chess, and when presented was dishonored, the officers of the bank saying that there was no funds there for any such person. Mr. Chess made information yesterday before Alderman Strain, charging Merrian with fraud. A warrant was issued for his arrest. Mr. Chess resides in South Pittsburg and Merrian in Allegheny.

The Cincinnati Enquirer of the 18th has the following:

Business on the landing, in consequence of departing steamers, showed a positive improvement on the previous days of the week, and established rates of freight were maintained. The underwriters holding risks on the steamers Lady Gay and Mississippi yesterday paid the Wiggins Ferry Company, of St. Louis, one thousand dollars salvage for saving the above named steamers from burning a few days since, when the G. W. Graham and Yellowstone were destroyed by fire at the St. Louis wharf. The proportion was forty-seven dollars to each company. The light draught stern wheel steamer America takes the place of the C. T. Dumont in the Madison trade, leaving on her first trip to-day. The Anna having been chartered to take the place of the Blue Wing in the Madison trade, left yesterday on her first trip. She extended her trip to Louisville.

The St. Louis Democrat, of Friday has the following:

The river continued on the rise yesterday, slowly. Decline expected to day. At nearly all points the upper rivers are reported falling. The weather is quite warm. Business on the wharf yesterday was lively, and steady increase is certain.

The Paducah Herald says:

We touch our hat in acknowledgment of the compliment paid Captain Murray and our ways, by the Avalanche. Ever watchful of the interest of our city, we suggested to Captain Richardson, when he told us the intention was to lay the Lee up, to anchor her here. He assured us that such had been the intention of the owners of the Lee and Quitman, but they would want to start out early in the fall and were afraid of being caught above the "chains." Said he, "If Paducah would only have that chain removed, all the large class boats, as in days gone by, would seek their summer quarters here." We believe it; and not only that, but during low water it would be of vast advantage to this port by making it the head of navigation, which advantage now belongs to Cairo, a village fifty miles below us, where freight gets "stuck." The question arises cannot the "grand chain," better known among steamboatmen as the "grave yard," be removed?

A CURIOUS STORY.

History of an East Tennessee Boy who Goes to Mexico.

Becomes a Duke of the First Empire, and Envoy to the United States.

From the Nashville Republican Banner, July 14.]

That some lucky American will one day "turn up trumps" in Mexico—that the genius of enterprise or accident will soon or late conduct a more fortunate or more timely adventurer than Iturbide or Maximilian to successes which they were unable to acheive—that the country will be regenerated by Yankee "push," and Yankee skill, and a Yankee ruler—that it will open itself at last to peaceful immigration, modern improvement and thorough civilization, under the darling impetus of the Yankee, dare devil spirit of "progress," seem to be contingencies but one door removed from the list of certainties, nor very far removed from our present stand point. For that issue of events, however, we can only "wait and see." It is suggestive, pleasing and rather picturesque, and will, I dare say, be romantic enough after it has transpired, and the poets, artists, story tellers, historians and letter writers, have laid their pens and pencils on it. Meanwhile, as we wait and speculate, it may be worth one's idle time to turn backward and retraverse the field which has been gone over; to pluck up an incident or two from out the rubbish and still accumulating ruin of civil war. Allow me to lead the way.

On the 12th of May, 1848, I reached Jalapa with orders for General Lane, who was in command there. My quarters were in the little street Attila, leading from the Plaza, with Madame Mantoux, widow of a Frenchman who had served as a Colonel in the Mexican army. Just opposite was a rather showy dwelling, and a few days after my arrival a most imposing cortege issued thence. On inquiry I learned that the master of the house, Don Elaiza Persidonio Beran, Duke de Perrote under the Empire, Field Marshal of the Republic and Cononel of the Guards during the first dictatorship of Santa Anna, had died and this was his funeral. He had been retired for many years, took no part in the pending war, and left an enormous fortune. When I add that he was born in East Tennessee, that his father and mother were plain people from North Carolina, and that his near relatives are scattered all over this country, you will perhaps be curious to know his history, and how he wandered so far out of the beaten track of his kith and kin, and especially the source of his wealth and titles. I will repeat the facts, as I learned them at the time, very briefly.

Elias P. Bean—for such was the name of this dead old soldier of Mexico—was born near Bean's Station, and never quitted the immediate country round about until he was eighteen years of age. At that epoch in his career he started with his father and brother on a flatboat bound for Natchez, and loaded with whisky. The boat was lost, however, off the Muscle Shoals, and the father and brother concluded to return home, leaving Elias to proceed to the intended destination, where he had relatives. He reached Natchez after many adventures, and was warmly welcomed by his friends there. This was about the year 1797.

During twelve or fifteen months, he spent his time mainly on the river. He was a daring young fellow, fond of adventure and hazard, and soon got into the company of gamblers and horse thieves. He learned to speak both French and Spanish; to cheat at cards; to bully and swindle the Indians; to make love and fight duels. In one of these he had the misfortune to kill his man, and was obliged to fly the "settlement." He did so with a gang of marauders under the famous Captain Nolan, whose name and adventures suggested the story of "the man without a country." Nolan, however, was not a United States officer, and never was at sea in all his life. In fact, this expedition, on which Bean accompanied him, was his last. The party crossed the Mississippi, then the Red river, reached the Texas line, fought two or three battles with the Indians, in one of which Nolan was killed, and was finally, with all its plunder, captured by the Mexicans and carried to San Antonio.

Bean was released after a few months of confinement and given the area of the town as the limit of his prison. He became first apprenticed to a hatter, but being more skillful than his master, soon set up for himself, and grew to be very popular and fashionable. It was his determination, however, to return to the States the very first opportunity, and when he had collected a larger sum of money than he had ever had before, he attempted to escape. But he was pursued, overtaken, made captive again and carried back in disgrace. Two succeeding unsuccessful efforts caused him to be sent to the city of Mexico, whence he was remanded by the Viceroy (it was before the separation from Spain) to the State Prison at Acapulco on the Pacific coast.

Here he lay for five years, most of the time in solitary confinement. The record of his prison life, written by himself, is as interesting as "Picceola." Instead of an herb, however, his companion was a lizzard; and there was no such thing as a woman within the dreary walls that closed upon him. Once he made his escape and was recaptured; once he got up a conspiracy and was about to be shot, when—the commandant needing soldiers to resist an attack of the rebels under Morelos—he got off with his life and was put to military duty on the battlements. Two nights after this he carried the squad with which he was enrolled over to the enemy, making an embrazure behind him, and before day, the garrison was surprised and overcome, and the "cross of Castile was lowered to the eagles of the revolution," as he quaintly expresses it. For this service Morelos made him a Colonel and became his fast friend. He was soon after promoted second in command; and in 1814, five years later, was dispatched to this country as Envoy Extraordinary. He brought with him young Almonte (afterward the distinguished General), who was an illigitimate son of Morelos, and put him to school in New Orleans. Soon after Morelos was made prisoner and executed, and Bean returned to Mexico. In all subsequent revolutions he bore a conspicuous part. He was Minister of War to Iturbide, who made him Duke of Perrote; and when the Empire fell quit the country and got to France. Recalled by Santa Anna, who made him General of the Republic, he once more acquired popularity and influence, married a sister of General Arista, fought very successfully at Vera Cruz, retired in 1840 to Jalapa, and died, as I have described, in May, 1848, rich in years, and Mexican honors and dollars. He was buried without parade, but in a most splendid and ceremonial manner; in the Church of Guadalupe, of the Convent of Corpus Christi.

Bean's history illustrates this old truth, that fortune generally seeks the heroes who have been the most successful in adventurous times. If one of us should start out to follow in his footsteps, the result would most likely be fatal or ridiculous. Perhaps had he been a scheming speculator instead of a reckless dare-devil, he would have lost every turn. But fortune was thrust upon him in spite of himself; and most likely the future conqueror of Mexico—the Napoleon looming up on the Western horizon of the New World—if he be not in his cradle—is some poor devil of an outcast, playing monte and drinking a guardieme, or going barefoot and wearing ragged jackets, or riding a mustang and using the lasso, thinking more about to-night's resting place and to-morrow's meal of victuals than the glories that are in store for him, and the realm of which he is to be the coming man."

THE AUTOMATON HORSE.

A Wonderful Invention.

The following description of a new invention now on exhibition at the great "show," in Paris, we clip from a private letter published in the Charleston Courier, of the [illegible]:

I was fortunate enough to be present yesterday evening at a private view of this wonderful invention. The throng at the exposition is so dense in the day time that any attempt to work it during exhibition hours was impossible. Through the kindness of M. de M., whose acquaintance I made in 1858, when he was attache at Washington, I formed one of fifty persons provided with special permits. On entering, groups of the Cent Gardes made me think the Emperor was present, but I did not see him till the middle of the exhibition. I saw, among the curious, Nasmyth, of hammer celebrity, and Whitworth, arm in arm with Howe, of sewing machine notoriety.

The iron horse bears no resemblance to its equine namesake. Imagine a trunk-shaped box about seven feet long, and wide enough for a man to saddle, and about five feet high, the whole concern mounted on five wheels; the wheels are concealed, however, under the machine. It is covered with leather, and has a saddle, only the saddle is very high in front and back, so that there is no chance of being unhorsed. In front is a steering apparatus of the simplest kind—two silk chords—just before the saddle a steel bar, which regulates the speed. If you pull it up, you start the machine; pull it higher you increase the speed; if you depress it, you go gradually slower until the apparatus stops.

The inventro, quite a young man, commenced winding up the machine with what seemed to me to be a crank motion, and as I distinctly heard the click of the rachet, I therefore supposed it was worked by a coil spring, but I have reasons since to think that I was mistaken. I suppose it took two minutes to wind it, when he mounted it, and started it by pulling up the steel bar. It moved gradually off, so that for the first minute I could walk along side of it, but presently it started at the speed of a fast horse, and in a moment more was lost, going round the curve of the circle.

I suppose you know the grand exposition of a series of concentric rings, each one devoted to a peculiar branch of industry. The one the machine was running on was the Numero Quatre, section del Mecaniques, and is among the largest, measuring some yards more than an English mile. It seemed to me to be incredible that he should have performed the circuit in two minutes and twelve seconds. A hearty clapping of hands greeted the machine as it came careering on, and gradually stopping without any apparent trouble.

I noticed the Emperor, generally taciturn, loud in his applause, clapping his hands as lustily as I did, and I was assured by M. de M. that he had never seen his Majesty on any occasion before show the least sign of commendation. The inventor then said that he would put it up to its speed, but to do that he must give the machine a start. He then wheeled round, and just like a jockey starting a horse, got it up to its maximum; as he passed us he seemed to be flying. The circuit was made in fifty seconds. A new salvo of applause met him as he brought the machine to where the Emperor was standing, and must say I felt some just emotion when the Emperor took the Legion of Honor from his button hole and placed it on the young inventor's breast.

M. told me that its endurance, if I may use the term, was extraordinary; that at its highest speed it would keep on going for four hours. I was led to believe that the mechanical power was secondary in it, and that a galvanic battery was the real motive power. It is rumored that a battery of constantly increasing elements sustains the motion. Anyhow the secret is well kept, the Emperor having, with the inventor, the only knowledge of it. M. also told me that at Vincennes a battery of artillery was to be moved with it instead of horses.

I may add that I saw four persons mount it, and it moved much more rapidly than would a carriage. An interesting experiment was made as to its capability of going over rough country. Several loads of dirt were shot on the floor, and it passed over it with apparent ease. One thing I remarked was that there was a perpendicular play in the wheels, and that as a difficulty was surmounted, one wheel would be higher than the other, whilst the body was on the same plane.

I think that it has been purposely placed in a retired part of the exposition, and I learned this morning that the Secretary of War has had it removed from the exhibition.

The inventor's name is Victor de Nardes.
